 SATURDAY, JULY 29, 1905.

The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

3,430

As the dogs are having their days now, the story from Manchester of the suicide of a canine may read decently well.

The Vermont press is now taking up a discussion of the sequel to "Why Do Girls Leave Home?" It is "Why Do Girls Shun Housework?" The question box is open.

Johann Hoch and Mary Rogers may felicitate each other. The latter's experience in stepping from the shadow of the gallows has been repeated by the Chicago murderer.

The genealogy of the Jackson family may yet be one of the most read volumes of the year, although we scarcely expect that it will go to the second edition.

The Bennington Banner pays Barre the compliment of "The happy-go-lucky days in Barre appear to have gone forever." There are still some happy days and a few lucky ones, but the combination we trust is broken.

Vermont's treasury is being lined by the autoists to a considerable extent, the sum of $2,000 having been paid in registration fees this far this year. Even the most hostile antagonists of the machines will admit that the evil is not without some gain.

That Marshfield is gaining by the experience of the recent disastrous fire is apparent in the announcement that several citizens are interesting themselves and others in a project to lay out the village into a fire district and to provide the district with some suitable fire fighting apparatus. Another horse may be stolen ere the barn is locked; there should not be delay. Let the obstructionists if there be any, see the necessity.

Nearly a hundred small children from the stuffy tenement districts of New York are being entertained for two weeks or more in Rutland families, getting the opportunity to breathe pure Vermont air and gambol in the sunlight. In addition, they were given an excursion to a nearby summer resort, through the kindness of Rutland people. The Herald of that City having volunteered to "pass the hat" for the necessary subscriptions. A liberal response followed the passing of the hat, and not only was there enough money to take them to the excursion but enough too to insure proper care for the youngsters on their return to New York. That the children are enjoying their stay in Vermont is certain, and that Rutland is enjoying the opportunity of entertaining them may be learned from The Herald's statement that "the children's excursion to Lake Bomoseen was enjoyed as much by the community that sent them as by the children themselves."

OBSERVATIONS.

The social millennium will not have arrived until every man is richer than his neighbors.

When you have made up your mind to find fault with somebody nothing is more irritating than to find his conduct thereafter unobjectionable.

When a man remarks that honesty is the best policy he is not usually talking about himself. His theory about himself is that rigid adherence to the virtues is responsible for his misfortune.

Seven heavens are really too many, but there should be at least three—the highest for those who were right, yet failed; the second for those who were right and succeeded; and the third for the wrong who were unsuccessful.—National Magazine.

COLLEGE AND SCHOOL.

Abraham W. Harris, president of the Jacob Tome Institute of Port Deposit, Ind., has accepted the presidency of the Northwestern university.

Mayor Dunne of Chicago has appointed three women, Miss Jane Addams, Mrs. Emma Blaine and Dr. Cornelia De Bey, to the Chicago school board.

Some of the lectures on medical subjects at the University of Vienna this summer are to be delivered in English if a sufficient audience preferring that language present themselves.

In consequence of almost daily disturbances in the University of Sofia, Bulgaria, the governing body decided to close it for the rest of the educational year, and 386 students have been suspended for one year.

JINGLES AND JESTS.

His Last Wish.
 The father of a family lay dying in his bed. His children gathered round him, and his dear wife bowed her head. And his servants came and listened for the words that he might say before his soul should take its flight and leave his mortal clay. And he whispered, "I am going, and I'll see you here no more. But I'll try—and stay—here with you—till you find out what's the score."
 —Houston Post.

Useless Advice.
 "Take my advice, young man, and keep away from Wall street."
 "I'm obliged to," answered Mr. Canby Dunne. "Since my last venture in stocks I haven't car fare to get there."
 —Washington Star.

The Illiterate Tag.
 There was once an illiterate tag whose fate it was always to lug. Said the tag, "It is true I'm not lovely to view, But at least I don't have to be 'drug.'"
 —Judge.

Unkind.
 Digby—I lost my mind when I was sick.
 Highy—When do you expect it back?
 —Judge.

Change of Diet.
 She said, "Give us our daily bread"—Then heaved a little sigh.
 And said, "Tomorrow night, mamma, I'm going to pray for pie."
 —Houston Post.

Lamentations.
 Gravel—dust—cattle—cursed—
 Wind and rain—hills that strain—
 Sand and mire—punctured tire—
 Stopped by train—jugged again!
 —Town Topics.

Two Things at Once.
 The housewife views with falling nerve Preserving time's proximity.
 She fears she can't at once preserve Her fruits and equanimity.
 —New York Herald.

Somewhat Different.
 Gray—Your wife used to be rather pensive before your marriage. Is she still so?
 Smith—Oh, no; she's expensive.—Detroit Tribune.

Mr. Stammer—I al-al-always s-s-stick to my word.
 Mrs. Hammer—I see you do.—New York Evening Telegram.

CHURCH AND CLERGY.

Bishop William Ford Nichols recently celebrated the fifteenth anniversary of his elevation to the bishopric of the Episcopal diocese of California.

Dr. Griffith John, the famous missionary to China of the London Missionary society, who has spent forty years in Hankow, is celebrating this year his jubilee as a preacher to the Chinese. He is seventy-four years old and in sound health.

Rev. Dr. J. Cullen Ayer, Jr., has resigned as rector of the Church of Our Redeemer, Lexington, Mass., and has accepted the position of professor of ecclesiastical history in the divinity school of the Protestant Episcopal Church of Philadelphia.

Dr. Henry H. Rasmus of the First M. E. church, Catford, England, objects to the practice of lowering the lights when the sermon is preached. He says he wants a view of the countenances of his congregation so that he may see "when they have had enough."
